Emma Palmer-Cooper

The deadline for FR15&16 PPI workshop submissions has now passed, and a list of the proposed workshop themes is attached.

The aim of these workshops is to bring together researchers and public contributors to discuss research interests and methodologies at the idea generation stage of funding applications. A further aim is to discuss issues around involving the public and patients in generating research questions and designing projects. We are able to support the most popular workshops, and as such need to gauge interest in each proposal.

The workshop proposals cover:

1. Clinical Trials - online recruitment and retention
2. Involving the public, patients and practitioners in general practice workforce research
3. Public involvement with Children and Young People in Primary Care Research
4. Research into Public Involvement: PPI in Quantitative research methodologies
5. Diversity in PPI in Primary Care
6. Patient and public priority setting for work research
